American Guild of Organists

A Message from the Dean

Dear Friends,

Summer greetings from your Dean-in-training. Thank you to all chapter members for your vote of confidence. I am looking forward to serving you as Dean, confident that the transition time will be pretty painless. Having a strong, well-organized board is a real blessing; everything is in very good order for the forthcoming season. The programs scheduled for the year promise to be fantastic. Be sure to note the listings in this issue for the falls celebration of the International Year of the Organ and mark your calendars right away. It is a good thing to come to events and support your chapter and colleagues.

Last month, several Springfield area organists participated in the Pipe Organ Encounter in Worcester, MA, as students, teachers, and coordinators. One of the largest POE's in the country, Assumption College was host to 42 students who were given daily private lessons, attended concerts and master classes, and went on a road trip to the Fisk factory and to Methuen. At the end of the week, they played in a group concert for each other, their families, and a large crowd of local people who came because they saw TV interviews and newspaper articles reporting the week's activities. It is so encouraging to watch the next generation of organists get together to learn about the instrument and its music, and to form a not-so-silent coalition of strong advocates for the future of the profession.

As I am new to this business of convening meetings and coordinating schedules, I will be most grateful for your comments and helpful ideas.

Let's have a great year!

AGO Certification Opportunity!

Welcome to the "Year of Education"! In this our anniversary year, the Education and Outreach Committee hopes to encourage Guild Members to study, practice and seriously consider applying for one of the certificates that the Guild offers, most notably the Service Playing Certificate. In November, we hope to begin a class to prepare ourselves for the Service Playing Certificate and we would invite all members to join us. The requirements for the Service Playing Certificate are really not much more than what most of us do every Sunday, but it does require recording a performance test, which may be a little intimidating. So we plan to be our own support group, study the music together and perform for each other. The Committee determined that the hardest part of the test is the requirement to transpose music. Methods of transposition and helpful hints from those skilled in this art will be part of the class. Once the class meets in November, we will set our own pace and meet several more times, each with a focus on part of the exam. Then the class will all travel together to the exam site in the Spring (must be done by April 30) and hopefully achieve valid AGO certification!

A list of the requirements and the music selections can be found on the national website and will also be available at the opening event September 21, 2008 at Trinity Methodist Church in Springfield.

For further information, you may contact any of the committee members: John Karalekas, Don Hooton, or Martha Sienkiewicz. This is the year to consider Professional Certification!

Organ Academy

The Organ Academy is a benefit of membership in the American Guild of Organists, Springfield Chapter. To promote the education of our members, the Academy has $250 scholarships available to members who wish to take private lessons for organ or choral directing during this academic year (beginning Sept. 1). The scholarship offers a $25 per lesson subsidy for 10 lessons. Students of all ages and economic status are welcome to apply. You must study with a Guild member and be willing to perform in a small venue at the end of the year. See the Organ Academy guidelines published on page 3 in this issue. To start the application process, please call Martha at 413-568-8033 or email: marthas@fastmail.fm

SCHOLARSHIP ANNOUNCED FOR CHURCH MUSICIANS

In 2009 the Charlotte Hoyt Bagnall Scholarship for Church Musicians will hold a competition for church musicians who have graduated or will graduate from high school as of June 30, 2009. Awards from five hundred dollars ($500) to twenty five hundred dollars ($2500) will be granted. The scholarship can be used for a variety of music studies including:

- Organ lessons
- Undergraduate or graduate studies related to organ or religious music
- Participation in organ festivals, seminars, music camps, etc.

Information and applications can be obtained by visiting the scholarship website <http://www.chbscholarship.com>, or by writing "The Charlotte H. Bagnall Scholarship" at 17 Beaverbrook Rd., West Simsbury, CT 06092. Applications are due by December 31, 2008.

ORGAN ACADEMY SCHOLARSHIP GUIDELINES
Springfield (MA) Chapter, American Guild of Organists

1. The Purpose of the Organ Academy Scholarship is to encourage the development and proficiency of the individual organist and/or Choir Master. All applicants, regardless of age or economic status, who demonstrate a genuine interest in the field of church music are welcome to apply.
2. The Education and Outreach Committee will administer the scholarships.
3. All students who receive the Organ Academy subsidy are required to be regular, special, or students members of the chapter and are strongly encouraged to attend and participate in various chapter events. Applications for the Organ Academy Scholarship must be submitted to the Education and Outreach Committee annually. This committee will notify the Chapter Treasurer of all necessary information on each student following his/her acceptance into the Organ Academy and the Chapter Treasurer will get all the appropriate forms to the teacher.
4. The total Organ Academy allocation and the scholarship per student are subject to annual Executive Board review. Currently, the subsidy is set at $25 per lesson and $250 per student for the academy year which runs from September 1 to the following August 31. The scholarship is intended for organ or choir master study only.
5. The per lesson subsidy is paid directly to the teacher upon receipt by the Chapter Treasurer of a properly completed and signed Reimbursement Request Form. Both the student and the teacher must sign each request form. The student is responsible for the remainder of the cost of each lesson which is to be paid directly to the teacher.
6. All teachers must be members in good standing of the American Guild of Organists and accepted by the Education and Outreach Committee and the Executive Board.
7. All Organ Academy participants will be expected to perform once annually in some form of a program as determined by the Executive Board and the Education and Outreach Committee.
8. Re-application for an Organ Academy Scholarship is required on an annual basis; acceptance will be determined by the Education and Outreach Committee along with the Executive Board.

INTERNATIONAL YEAR OF THE ORGAN BEGINS AT NATIONAL CONVENTION OF THE AMERICAN GUILD OF ORGANISTS

NEW YORK CITY—The 2008–2009 INTERNATIONAL YEAR OF THE ORGAN was officially launched at the National Convention of the American Guild of Organists (AGO) held recently in Minneapolis/St. Paul, Minn. Nearly 2,000 members of the organ and choral music community attended the week-long event, which took place in the Twin Cities and featured a variety of organ concerts, workshops, exhibits, and regional meetings of AGO chapters from around the country.

A New Year's Eve-style celebration, complete with noisemakers, fanfare, and a wide variety of organ music performed by internationally renowned organists and guests, was held at Wooddale Church in suburban Eden Prairie, Minn., to herald the start of the International Year of the Organ (IYO). A year-long celebration that will continue through June, 2009, the IYO will feature a multitude of activities ranging from organ concerts and recitals to organ building workshops and special organ music appreciation classes for students.

"It was very uplifting and exciting to see so many people celebrating a year set aside to honor the King of Instruments," said James E. Thomashower, executive director of the AGO. "We are thrilled to have this opportunity to introduce the organ and organ music to those around the world who are not aware of this amazing instrument and its many contributions to our society and culture and the impact it has had on music as a whole."

Highlighting the IYO will be an "ORGAN SPECTACULAR," a daylong celebration scheduled for October 19, 2008. On that day, more than 250 concerts will be held around the world to showcase the organ, its colorful history and its ability to enchant young and old alike. The organ's roots date back some 2,000 years to ancient Egypt, making it the world's oldest keyboard instrument.

Excitement continued throughout the convention as AGO President Frederick Swann honored three award-winning composers. The AGO Distinguished Composer Award, presented biennially to recognize outstanding composers of organ and choral music, was presented to Stephen Paulus of St. Paul, Minn. The AGO/ECS Publishing Award in Choral Composition, carrying a cash prize of $2,000, publication provided by the ECS Publishing Co. and a performance at the AGO National Convention, was presented to Stephen R. Fraser of Ontario, Canada. The AGO Award in Organ Composition, with a cash prize of $2,000 provided by the Holzkamp Organ Co., publication by Hinshaw Music Inc., and a performance at the AGO National Convention, was presented to Rachel Laurin of Ontario, Canada.

In addition to honoring these three award-winning composers, the AGO bestowed its two highest awards of national distinction during the convention. The AGO Edward A. Hansen Leadership Award, honoring the memory of the Guild's distinguished past president, was presented to Marianne Webb of Carbondale, Ill., for her outstanding leadership of the AGO. The AGO President's Award, presented biennially to recognize outstanding contributions to the art of the organ, was given to Mr. and Mrs. Wesley C. Dudley of Williamsburg, Va. The prestigious award recognizes the Dudleys' dedicated support of the AGO and generous patronage of the King of Instruments, particularly through Pipedreams broadcasts, bringing the voice of the organ into American homes from coast to coast and beyond.

Also announced at the convention were newly elected officers of the 2008–2010 AGO National Council, including eight national councillors and nine regional councillors. The newly elected AGO National Council, led by President Eileen Guenther, dma, and Vice President John Walker, fago, dma, will serve a term of two years, beginning July 1, 2008, and continuing through June 30, 2010.

The results of the AGO National Young Artists Competition in Organ Performance (NYACOP) and the National Competition in Organ Improvisation (NCOI) also were announced at the convention. The National Young Artists Competition in Organ Performance serves as a springboard for emerging young organists who develop their performance ability by participating in the various competition stages.

From a pool of 24 official NYACOP competitors, three finalists participated in the final round held at St. Mark's Cathedral in downtown Minneapolis. The prizewinners were determined following two performance rounds after submission of recordings and applications outlining their recital experience and demonstrating their readiness for the rigorous performing demands required of the first place winner. The $2,000 Lillian Murtagh Memorial Prize and two years of management by Karen McFarlane Artists were awarded to first place winner Michael Unger from Rochester, N.Y., who also won the audience-choice prize. The second place prize was awarded to Andrew Kotylo from Bloomington, Ind., and third place prize to Monica Harper from Ocala, Ga.

The National Competition in Organ Improvisation (NCOI), which was also featured at the convention, advances the art of improvisation by recognizing and rewarding superior performers in the field. The NCOI held its semifinal and final rounds at the House of Hope Presbyterian Church in St. Paul and at Hennepin Avenue United Methodist Church in Minneapolis. The competition concluded with the presentation of the $2,000 first prize to Jason Roberts from West Hartford, Conn., second prize to Steven Ball from Ann Arbor, Mich., and third prize to Herbert Buffington from Atlanta, Ga.
